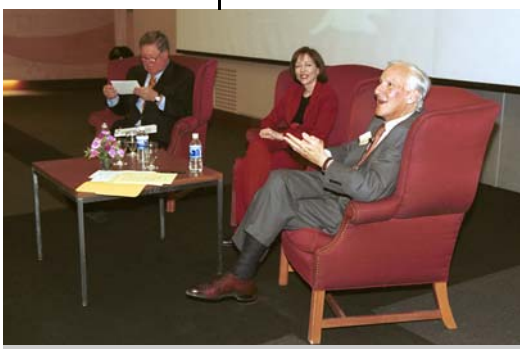
Senators Magnuson's Symposium Honors a Great Legacy!

The UW Libraries Symposium to honor the lives and achievements of the late Senators Warren G. "Maggie" Magnuson and Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson was a great success! The Friends of the UW Libraries Development Committee, chaired by Sharon Nelson, organized the event held on April 12th, 2003 to benefit the Warren G. Magnuson Endowed Library Fund.



Panelists L-R: Congressman Norm Dicks, Senator Maria Cantwell, Regent Jerry Grinstein

The evening featured a lively panel discussion by Senator Maria Cantwell, Congressman Norm Dicks and UW Regent President, Gerald Grinstein. The memories, stories and thoughtful comments provided by the panel were warmly shared with the Senators' family, friends and colleagues. The attendance of Mrs. Jermaine Magnuson and Mrs. Helen Jackson made the evening particularly special. A reception immediately followed the symposium in Kane Hall's Walker-Ames Room.

Planning is already underway for the 2005 event to celebrate Magnuson's 100th birthday.

Senators Magnuson and Jackson worked in tandem for an extraordinary four decades serving the citizens of Washington State in advancing health care, natural resource preservation, consumer protection and civil rights legislation. The political papers of Senators Magnuson and Jackson are entrusted to the University Libraries and organized for research as a part of a major Pacific Northwest archive.

The Magnuson Endowed Library Fund was established in 1998 and provides critical support for books, serials, and other materials in areas relevant to both Senator's interests, including: political science and history, law, natural resources, consumer protection, science and transportation.
